

A ideal partner
for projects' implementation activities

Materially: EU projects

Materially: what we do

Materially is the ideal partner for projects' implementation activities, specifically related to design-driven methodologies, as facilitator of interdisciplinary communication, as well as for dissemination and exploitation of project results.

Thanks to our relationships with institutions, public bodies, universities and private companies, developed in a 15-year history of consulting and collaboration in funded projects, Materially has several contacts and capability to exploit opportunities related to EU calls for proposals.

Materially: why us?

We are positioned among the technology (RTD), industry (manufacturing), creativity (design), and market (marketing) areas, for which we are considered:

- + FACILITATOR

Strategic connector of different knowledge and skills.

- + MATERIAL DRIVEN INNOVATION

A technology transfer center with a design-oriented approach in the field of material innovation.

- + STRATEGIC PROCESSES

A center of support services for companies regarding innovation and communication processes.

Funded projects: activities & expertise

Over the past years, we have been involved in many national project calls and partnered in several EU funded projects.
