The company

The international namesake brand, based in Chicago, is known for delivering the unexpected through a seemingly simple gesture. Archetypes are reinvented; typologies are crossed and blended. European influences, minimalist aesthetics, mastery of proportion, and meticulously considered details are the hallmarks of fferrone. Often lighthearted and whimsical, the furniture and objects are timeless. Through close collaborations with master artisans, each piece is handcrafted allowing for innovative use of materials and production techniques, underlying another fundamental attribute to her design philosophy and approach.

The designer

Felicia Ferrone is a designer and educator. Born in Chicago, she graduated in architecture from Miami University, Ohio, after which she moved to Milan. Ferrone's expansive reach is informed by her early experience as an architect in Milan, where she was first taught to "blur boundaries." Her work has garnered numerous awards and is widely published.

TABLETOP

Revolution Collection

- GOOD DESIGN AWARD winner
- Included in Permanent Collection at the Art Institute of Chicago

Strikingly simple in form, the Revolution Collection is handcrafted by master glassblowers, and formed from a pure extrusion of hand-blown borosilicate glass. The collection is comprised of 6 tabletop vessel designs combining typologies of tumbler, stemware, and bowls.

The Revolution Collection redefines the landscape of the table as the contents seem to defy gravity, be it water, wine, champagne, gelato, or soup.

Frances Collection

Meaning “from France”, apt for being introduced in Paris, but more importantly meaning of “free one” which takes on an ever more important significance today. A family name on both sides of my lineage, this collection is about tradition yet with a clear focus on the future through unexpected proportions and lines. The Frances Collection has the formality of a stemmed glass yet with a width that brings a fresh perspective, possibly one of hope for freedom of expression by and for all.

Linea Candlesticks

The Linea Candlesticks derive their name from the creative act of making a line, the first expression of a design, and from its linearity as it transitions from candlestick to candle.

The handcrafted Linea Candlestick becomes the extension of the tall, slender candle. The design transforms the appearance of the candle, rendering it weightless as if floating, suspended in mid-air. Minimalist and simple in form, Linea embodies all the whimsy and magical effects of candlelight. Whether mixing the three candlestick heights on a table or credenza, pairing them as matching sets, or using a single candlestick, the Linea works in any environment.

Splash Vase

This 2-part vase is both a flower frog, or flower arranger, and vessel. The Splash Vase redefines the flower frog which was in its heyday in the US from the mid-twenties and thirties but can be traced back to the 16th century. From a single stem to an arrangement, this vase celebrates the flowers through its design and handcrafted techniques. Each flower frog's hole pattern is unique as each hole is carefully created at just the precise moment in the glass' molten state
