Qian Jing

Graphic designer, creation director

After graduating from the China Academy of Art in Hangzhou in 2004, he continued her studies getting a Master of Fine Arts in Visual Communication Design at the College of Fine Arts in Toulouse, France. Between 2006 to 2007, she attended the University of Bauhaus (option art) within the Erasmus European exchange program. In 2009, she worked as the assistant for the Art & Technical Director of French Pavilion in 2010 Shanghai Universal Expo, in 2011, she worked as assistant Art director for the French Pavilion at the Yeosu International Exhibition in Korea. Since 2012, her focus has been on culture, art and fashion. Qian Jing has been collaborating with many artists, festivals, museums and fashion brands, such as IKEA, the French Pavillon for 2010 Shanghai Expo, Centre Pompidou, the Shanghai Minsheng Art Museum, Shanghai Pearl Art Museum, Louis Vuitton, Consulate General of France in Shanghai etc. In 2017, Qian Jing launched the brand MEW, with the ambition to regenerate the handmade rug in a contemporary way, by exploring the tradition and updating it with experimental designs and genuine spirit.

平面设计师, 创意指导

2004年毕业于中国美术学院视觉设计系, 之后前往法国就读于法国图鲁兹高等艺术学院, 获视觉设计系硕士学位, 并于2006年在德国包豪斯高等艺术学院造型艺术系做为期半年的交流学习。2009年任上海世博会法国馆艺术及技术总监助理、2011年任韩国丽水世界博览会法国馆艺术总监助理。自2012年, 专注于平面设计的文化、艺术以及时尚领域, 钱菁在东西两种文化教育及生活环境之间不断的寻找着能够传达自身个性的视觉语言。身份的模糊, 地域界限的消失, 她更加关注视觉图形本身, 意外的、偶发的、有趣的、随机的、不平衡的, 这些更加细节以及轻松的概念是她的创作动机。在和众多巴黎及上海的艺术家的画廊, 艺术节, 美术馆以及商业品牌进行平面视觉设计的合作, 包括宜家、法国蓬皮杜美术馆、上海民生美术馆、明珠美术馆、Louis Vuitton、法国驻中国大使馆、现代传媒等等。2017年钱菁同时创建了MEW磨叽手工地毯品牌, 期待用一种更加实验的精神以及当代的方式对传统工艺和当代视觉设计做出新的结合, 并对当代空间带来新的视觉体验。

JAN

Jan Groover
2 mars - 18 mai 2013

La galerie Paul Frèches est heureuse de présenter un ensemble exceptionnel de photographies de Jan Groover (1943 - 2012).

Figure essentielle et singulière de la photographie depuis les années 1970, disparue en 2012, Jan Groover a construit une œuvre de tout premier plan au fil d'une carrière de près de quarante ans. Bien qu'elle ait vécu les vingt dernières années de sa vie en France, son travail n'a pas été montré à Paris depuis son exposition à la galerie Sonnabend en 1978. Présente dans les collections des plus grands musées américains, son œuvre a fait l'objet d'une exposition personnelle au MoMA en 1987.

C'est pour nous une grande fierté de remettre en lumière ce travail d'une qualité plastique et d'une rigueur éblouissantes.

GROOVER

Jan Groover,
Sunset, 1978,
10x15 inches,
E print, ed. 1/15

took calculated steps in developing his practice, slowly maturing his body of work, and it was not until 1978 that Jan Groover garnered recognition.

Groover's polyptychs exhibited in museums such as the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art, the Corcoran Gallery in Washington, the George Eastman House in Rochester are enigmatic groups of two or three color large-scale photographic reproductions. The polyptychs appeared visually disorienting and forced various public spaces from a given point, in turn interrupted by elements sharing the images' composition. As a native speaker of a coming transparency of the photographic image, Groover advised not to consider her landscapes as mere perspectives on reality but rather as the formal structuring of photographic space, considering the capacity of her images in tackling new challenges of their own making.

A turning point occurred in 1968, during which the artist began her color still-life photographs, a genre continually revisited throughout the course of her career. It is interesting to note that during the same period, the Abstract Generation movement was in development. While artists such as Richard Prince, Cindy Sherman, and Sherrie Levine embraced the reappropriation of popular imagery in an attempt to both de-stabilize and alienate itself from the history of photography, Jan Groover affirmed photography's historical legacy and continues to this day. Her work explicitly draws from the work of masters like Edward Weston (peppers) and Olanoff (corn cobs) as well as modernist masters like Alfred Stieglitz (bodies and faces) as mere compositional elements, as well as adding a wide range of photographic genres, inevitably referring to still-life and its compositional potential.

The diversity of techniques employed by Jan Groover during her remarkable career has left behind impressive landmarks to trace the artist's development. Driven by a moral imperative to continuously advance her practice despite all odds, she often went against the dominant artistic movement. Around 1960, she momentarily abandoned color in experiment with platinum print, a technique deemed anachronistic of the period. It was in 1991
