The public will appreciate together with exhibition of paintings, also installations and multimedia works characterized by artistic research on materials in a path that end up with NFT and the metaverse.

The public will also learn how to "measure" its own reaction experiencing a small lab set for reading facial expression – the “emotionmeter” - when looking at changes in colors, paintings, artistic subjects and gaining a key for a better understanding of emotions elicited by the artistic images in terms of attention, involvement, pleasure, memorization.
