

The Matter of Emotions

curated by Materiality

For the Milano Design Week 2023, Materiality presents a perspective on materials, starting from the concept of wonder. Often associated with magic, mystery and discovery, wonder belongs to children, to the magic of theater, the amazement in art and the extraordinary revelations of science. All fields which, through material innovation, stretch the limits of our knowledge, answering a multitude of design questions. Wonder Matter(s), explores the concept of wonder applied to three areas - education, art, and industry - through events spread across multiple locations of the city: a path which will host chapters of a story that Materiality wants to share with a diverse public.

Wonder Matter(s) @ Superstudio Più, Vivarium @ Accademia di Brera, Materiality e MCX @ Triennale.

This path welcomes partners with eminent experiences, skills, and attitudes. BAM, Fondazione Reggio Children, Total Tool/Giulio Ceppi, Tufts University, University of Pennsylvania, Accademia di Brera, Material Connexion are coming together on this project, as well as designers, artists, curators, and outstanding companies producing material solutions that transform everyday life - all players in the game of exploring new ideas, trends and project tools.

Materiality offers three material contexts, three diverse plans, three distinct but complementary points of view, aimed at offering a brand-new perspective on the topic of material innovation. The project is presented as a collective and choral campaign that wishes to examine the complexity of the world we live in, by means of one of the most powerful human drives: wonder.
